

The structure of exotic panties

Field of the invention

This present case is about a style of panties, especially exotic panties.

Background of the invention

Feminism has become a tendency of the society. Feminism not only applies on work and growth, it also applies to pleasure between couples.

Modern people are now searching for more excitement and pleasure while making love. Therefore, there are many kinds of foreplays to produce more pleasure and desire. However, body shapes can gradually become imperfect due to age gets old, where desire can be decreased when one is totally naked.

We can find panties that have long gaps at the position of the genitals, where much of these often have knots decorates the gap. Although these types of panties can also provide pleasure during sex, it can possibly hurt or scratch the genitals if the users have sex by not taking off the panties.

The present invention does not limit to only male or female, it can possibly increase the pleasure if both wear.

Summary of the invention

The inventor hopes to provide panties that can not only provide pleasure and also prevent the genitals from scratch or hurt while making love.

Due to the research that the inventor did, the inventor figured that by having appropriate amount of nudity on the panties can provide more eroticism. Therefore, an appropriate amount of the nudity at the position of the genital is the main object of this present invention.

On the other hand, by designing the panties in different styles, patterns, and textures can also provide more pleasure for the users.

This present invention is different from the past panties that tend to cover the genitals. Mainly this present invention provides a certain amount of nudity to the genitals so that the user may look sexier. Also, the opening can also allow the user to make love without taking off the panties and not hurt the genitals.

Panties can have many different shapes; therefore, this present invention does not limit to only the style shown on the figures.

Detailed Description of Preferred Embodiments

According to fig. 1 to fig. 3, this present invention includes the body of the panties 10 and an opening 20.

The body of the panties 10 can be many kinds of panties people often use. Their shapes can be different, so the shapes of the panties do not limit to the ones shown on the figure. The body of the panties 10 has the upper openings 11 that go around the user's waist and two side openings 12, 13 where the user's leg goes through. An opening 20 is between the two side openings 12, 13.

The opening 20 has a certain area, that it does not interfere the gestures of the users during sex. The circumference 21 of the opening 20 is trimmed so that the lines of the body of the panties 10 do not fall off.

The circumference 21 can be in any style to decorate the panties to increase the authentic ness of the panties.

The specialty of the present invention is to provide panties that has opening below, which allows the user to make love without taking off the panties.

For the most comfort, convenience, and beauty while the user wears this present invention, the edge of the cloth are well trimmed. Therefore, the surface can be minimized and the convenience and comfortable in wearing as well as good looking can be achieved.

By having the genital partially nude during sex can help the sex become more joyful for couples. The point is to make the sex different from the normal sex and add some more pleasure to it.
